

Halo Hybrid Fractional Laser Post Treatment Considerations

- An intense sunburn sensation will be evident for the first couple of hours following the laser and will then quickly dissipate. You will probably be red/sunburned looking for the first 24-48 hours. A breathable, skin friendly mineral foundation is safe to apply starting the day after the procedure. (Oxygenetics breathable makeup is an option).
- Pinpoint bleeding may occur and will likely resolve within a few hours
- Swelling is normal, especially the first 24-72 hours following treatment. Use of ice and elevation of the treated area can help resolve this side effect. Benadryl can also help to alleviate some swelling.
- “Coffee ground” dark spots will start to surface within 2/3 days after treatment. Do not exfoliate or pick at these dry spots and to let them slough off on their own. A “sandpaper” texture to the skin as it regenerates is normal.
- It is OK to continue to exercise 24 hours after treatment
- It’s very important to keep treated skin moisturized and protected with a post-procedure friendly SPF at all times during this sloughing period
- If you have any signs of infection (fever, chills, drainage), please call our office immediately.
